" O Holy Night"

Written by Bill Perkins

Over the last few days I've been listening to many versions of O Holy Night. As I listen to the words I consider all they represent and find myself drawn to the infant Jesus on that holy night long ago. I hope you'll be able to take a few minutes this evening or tomorrow morning to listen to my favorite version. I like Hillsong's rendition because Tanya Smith worships as she sings. Plus, unlike other versions, she hits some low notes at the perfect moment. "Bow on your knees," fittingly, is an example of what I mean.

Enjoy as you join me in worshiping the One born on this night.

Reading the backstory will give the song even more meaning.

Love,

Bill Perkins
